

VIEWS OF THE OLD KONA AIRPORT PARK

NEW ACRYLICS

by

Jason Izumi

Jason Izumi, a lifelong Kona resident, will be showing recent works in acrylic, both on paper and canvas, during December and January. The landscapes are scenes of the Old Kona Airport, with various viewpoints looking toward Hualalai, along the coast and out to sea. Jason captures the mood of the area with an interesting combination of bold brush strokes and a subtle, subdued color palette.

According to Jason "The Old Kona Airport Park is not the most obvious painters' paradise, but I find it to be so---there are unobstructed views from all directions, and a great variety of inspiring subject matter - the sea, sky, reflecting tide pools, palms, Mt. Hualalai, 'shark rock'. I find it a quick energy booster, getting immersed in nature here from time to time."

The exhibit will be on display through the end of January.

Hours: M-Thurs. 10am – 5 pm, and Fri. 10 am – 4 pm
